

FITZ

Is Not What He Once Was

But He Defeated Gardner
At 'Frisco

BOB JUST AS TRICKY, BUT NOT SO FAST.

TWENTY ROUND RING CONTEST

Was Won on Points—The Lowell Fighter Knocked Down Repeatedly in the Battle.

San Francisco, Nov. 26.—In the match last night between Fitzsimmons and George Gardner, Fitzsimmons won because he scored all the knockdowns and because he did the cleaner punching.

Gardner fought a slovenly fight, and few of his punches seemed to have either strength or speed behind them.

Fitz is as tricky as ever, but not nearly so fast or forceful.

He reached Gardner with his famous left shift both on the head and on the body and had him on the floor repeatedly.

Fitzsimmons also reached Gardner's cheek and temple with full sweeps of his right arm. Anyone of these punches in Fitz's old days would have meant a knockout.

Yet Gardner was always able to get up within the time limit and keep battling on in a clumsy, amateurish fashion.

Fitz tired very easily and it began to look as if Gardner would wear him down. In the concluding rounds of the fight Fitz was circling around the ring with Gardner in pursuit.

Several times after resting his arms thoroughly Fitz knocked Gardner down with left shifts or right swings.

Gardner kept pegging away with a left body punch. He used both hands on Fitz's midsection in the clinches, but did not seem to hurt the Cornish-man to any extent.

Referee Graney said it was one of the worst fights he ever witnessed. It simply suggested that the Fitzsimmons of a few years ago would have finished Gardner in a single round.

Gardner's poor showing is inexplicable. It is just possible that after he had been felled a couple of times in

ROBERT FITZSIMMONS.

the early rounds his confidence forsook him.

First round—Fitz feinted and Gardner drew away. They worked around each other, sparring cautiously. Fitz drove a right to the head, missing.
Gardner got in a right and they clinched. Fitz missed with left for ribs Gardner got back from a left shift for the body. Gardner was short with left and right at head.

Twentieth—Gardner feinted and Fitz danced around. Fitz missed with left and right. Gardner missed with left. They clinched. Gardner used left and right on body and Fitz held on.
They broke and Fitz missed with right and tried to clinch again. Gardner pressed him to the ropes and battered him around the ribs and stomach with left and right. They broke and Fitz rushed. He missed swinging blows Gardner closed in on him and hammered him around the stomach again. Fitz was trying to protect himself and held on. Gardner backed him into a corner and banged away at the stomach while Fitz clung to his shoulder. When they parted from a bit of a mix Gardner used his right and left to the face and Fitz hooked him in the body with the left.

nent young society woman of Zanes-

THIS IS GEORGE GARDNER A VICTIM OF GRANDPA FITZ.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 26.—Instead of furnishing the public a new middleweight champion, George Gardner, the Lowell, Mass., boxer, furnished another victim for the deadly wallop of the man who for years has been the wonder of the prize ring.

Bob Fitzsimmons, the only man who ever held both the middle-weight and heavy-weight titles, demonstrated that he is still pastmaster of the art of mixing to the other fellow's disadvantage.

Those who imagined Ruby Bob was getting too old to hold his own against the younger and presumably more vigorous scrappers were badly in the wrong. Gardner, who had been the idea with color are now of the belief that Fitz is indeed a terror.

The wonderful vitality and ring generalship, the great footwork and terrible right hand that has won him several fortunes and championship of two classes, sounded the death knell of the Bay state scrapper, and instead of being champion of the World, Gardner is only another of the long list of the Grand Old Man's victims.

"DAD'S GIRL" BRINGS SUIT.

Beautiful Young Woman Drags Humorist Well Known to Advocate Readers into Court Suing For Two Weeks Pay.

MISS BILLINGS AS SHE APPEARED IN COURT READING A LETTER.
New York, Nov. 26.—Again it is the story of age and youth, of gray hair and fluffy locks, of the old adage of old fools.

The latest old man to fall a victim to a young girl is Charles B. Lewis, well known throughout the country for his writings over the signature of "M. Quad." He is being sued in New York by his former secretary, and the testimony in the case would be fun-nier than anything the humorist ever wrote, if it were not pitiful.

The girl in the case is Miss Marie Aileen Billings, and she is only 20 years old, while Lewis has reached the age of 62. Miss Billings claims $69 as two weeks' salary as Lewis' secretary.
The testimony includes a number of letters written by Lewis to Miss Billings, letters in which he calls his young secretary "chicken," "dad's girl," "dear kid," and other endearing names.

Capt. Oberlin M. Carter will be released from prison Saturday.

Mrs. Silas Brackin, who as Miss May Bell Gregory was a few years ago pronounced the most beautiful woman in America, was burned to death Wednesday in Tennessee.

The story goes that Lewis became infatuated with the girl when she was but 16 years old. He admits employing her and becoming very much interested in her, so much, in fact, that he gave her considerable money that she did not earn, and finally rented an apartment for her that she might have a chance to try her hand at play-writing. But he claims that he has paid her all that he owes her.

Miss Billings, on the other hand, claims that she is responsible for most of Lewis' recent literary success. She says that his best known late stories were written at least in part by her.
This Lewis denies.

But New York is gloating over the case. It tickles New Yorkers to see an old man struggling in the clutches of a young girl. Perhaps it's because New Yorkers like to see some one else in the position which most of them have at some time occupied.

At the adjourning time Wednesday the taking of testimony was not concluded in the case of Ohio vs. Harry Riggelman, who is being tried for incest. The prosecuting witness is Peter Lombard, of near Frederick-land and is charged that Riggelman seduced his daughter from Lombard's home at night. The court adjourned the case to Friday morning at 9 o'clock. The case will not be heard until the 27th, until late Friday.

GIRL

After Sinking Into
Trance

Tells of People Long Since Dead

WONDROUS GLORY OF HEAVEN AND ITS JOYS

ARE DEPICTED BY THE CHILD,

Mary Kidder, a Michigan Girl, Foretells the Details of Her Death—Peculiar Case.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 26.—Mary
A. Kidder, aged 14, daughter of John Kidder, is causing intense excitement by sinking into trances daily, after receiving from which she relates remarkable tales of departed beings and scenes in heaven. She foresees the particulars of her own and her parents' death. To men and women unknown to herself the girl has given names and descriptions of their departed friends, some of whom have been dead 40 years. She conveys a message from the dead to the living.

To Mrs. Addie Hess, whom neither the girl nor her family had ever seen, she described and gave the names of the woman's husband, Cyrus Hess, deceased, and of several relatives dead for years. To Mrs. Edwin G. Russell she described and named her brother, George Hartman, who died 40 years ago and never saw Kalamazoo, conveying several messages. She also named and described and gave messages from two deceased children of Mrs. Russell.

Mrs. A. Kamp, a total stranger, was told of her husband's mother, who died 32 years ago. Her name and description were given. The girl also named and described two deceased children of Mrs. Kamp and conveyed messages from them.

Mary describes her visions of heaven. She says: "I can't tell just what the sensation is like, I can't tell when the trances are coming. It just strikes me suddenly. I lose control of my body and seem to be carried up—up to an almost unimaginable height.
The air seems soft and fans my face. I fly through the clouds and then suddenly I know I am in heaven. About me stretches a great city, but there are no houses nor streets. Beautiful white robed angels are singing and talking and sailing through the air. I am flashed through two immense, white, pearly gates, and then the whole beauty of the place is before me.

"Colors of every hue and description and the most beautiful music I ever heard are on every side. I seem to know all the people there and they come to me and talk. It all seems so strange to me. The angels tell me their names and when I come back here and repeat them and describe what I have seen I find the living relatives of the angels right here and they look at me and wonder.

"No words can describe what heaven really is. I try to cry out my joy, but find I can move neither hand nor foot.
One of the spirits told me that when I died I would be free to move just as they do. I cannot understand how the angels pass through the air. They have no wings, nor do they walk. They just seem to be taken through the air in any direction they wish to go."

Mary has been suffering from spinal trouble. Last July curvature of the spine developed. Dr. Frederick Shill-to attended the girl and incased the body in a plaster cast. Last Monday the cast was removed and an hour later the girl's body became rigid, her eyes dilated and the most strenuous efforts failed to arouse her.

"The girl is in a very peculiar mental condition," said Dr. Shillito, the attending physician. "She has what is called catalepsy, and when in that condition people often have such peculiar ideas and dreams. I have seen her in this condition and know of her telling people who come to the house of their relatives dead for years. Whether all that she says is true or not, of course, I cannot say.

"The case is a very peculiar and unusual one in which I am personally very much interested."

THANKSGIVING LUNCHEONS.

Extra Thanksgiving lunches were served today at a number of the restaurants in the city. At Kuster's, Schaller Brothers, and C. F. Dean's the menu was especially elaborate and consisted of roast turkey, roast pig, oysters, meats of all kinds, salads, etc., and was greatly enjoyed by the patrons.

FOOTBALL

SEASON COMES TO A CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON.

Local Interest Centered in the Newark-Denison Game Here at Athletic Field Today.

Today the football season of 1903 comes to a close officially, and the center of interest is in the West, as the Yale-Harvard game last Saturday, which was a kind of anti-climax, closed the season in the East. This game was not as important as would have been the case had Yale defeated Princeton one week before. In Ohio interest will center in the game to be played between Ohio State, acknowledged to be the second best team in Ohio, and the strong Indiana university eleven, as comparing Ohio football with that played by the "Big Nine" teams, which includes Michigan, Minnesota, Chicago, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Northwestern. Local interest will, of course, be in the game between the Y. M. C. A. team and that of Denison university, as giving a line on the relative merits of a team of comparatively raw material and one that has been carefully coached all season.

In every section of the West, however, the eyes of every football man will turn to Chicago, where Michigan will play Stagg's midway pupils. Should Chicago win they would be, with Northwestern champions of the West, while if the Wolverines win, they will share the honor with Minnesota, providing the Gophers defeat Wisconsin.

Football's Death List.
Philadelphia, Nov. 26.—Seventeen football players have been killed this season and there may be several more victims whose deaths have not yet been recorded. After today the death list will probably go above 20.

Last season's record was not so large, but a number of fatalities were recorded.

The list of dead this season is as follows:

- Sept. 26—Wilson Acroyd, Penlyln, Pa.; broken neck.
 - Sept. 26—James Boswell, Winnipeg, Man.; dislocated neck.
 - Sept. 26—B. Jeffry, Norwich, N. Y.; internally injured.
 - Sept. 28—Gustave Becker, Lake Forest, Ill.; broken back.
 - Oct. 10—J. R. Houghton, South Bend, Ind.; internally injured.
 - Oct. 17—John Nelson, St. Paul; fractured skull.
 - Oct. 21—Robert E. Lewin, Baltimore Medical college; heart disease.
 - Oct. 21—John Withnell, St. Louis university; internally injured.
 - Oct. 23—Walter Edmunds, Newcastle, Pa.; internally injured.
 - Oct. 23—W. F. Connolly, Elmira, N. Y.; ruptured intestines.
 - Oct. 23—Daniel Meany, Boston; ruptured artery.
 - Oct. 24—Edward Cox, Newark, N. J.; internally injured.
 - Oct. 28—Thomas McCauley, Brooklyn; concussion of the brain.
 - Nov. 3—Raymond McVeigh, Brooklyn; concussion of the brain.
 - Nov. 7—Frank Shanklin, Indiana; internally injured.
 - Nov. 7—H. Gustavel, Akron, O.; internally injured.
 - Nov. 13—Charles Hope, Corning, N. Y.; fractured spine.
- Not less than a dozen are now in hospitals from injuries, and some of them may recover, while others may not.
- The injuries, minor injuries they are called only in football, run up into the hundreds. Scarcely a team in the country is without its list of broken bones and dislocations. The list of seventeen dead does not include a large percentage of the team from Purdue college who were killed in a train wreck on the way to play a game.
- Eggs in Zanesville Wednesday sold for 40 cents a dozen. The price in Newark was 30.

GROVER CLEVELAND
Will not be a Candidate for President—This Declination is Brought Forth in Response to Tammany's Proposal to Nominate Him.

New York, Nov. 26.—The Evening Post prints the following: "Persistent gossip that former President Grover Cleveland is at least considering the wishes of C. F. Murphy and other political leaders that he again accept a nomination for the presidency of the Democratic party is met by a statement of a close personal friend (Mr. Cleveland) that the former President certainly has given no encouragement, either to Mr. Murphy, the Tammany leader, or to his personal friends, to persist in speaking of him as a presidential possibility.

"You may say authoritatively," said this man, "that the subject was broached to Cleveland, and that he replied that he could hardly conceive of any emergency which would bring him the offer from the party of another nomination, and that it was equally difficult for him to conceive of any emergency that would lead him to accept such an offer, even were it made. More than that, you can say that Mr. Cleveland thinks there are good men in the Democratic party, distinguished and able enough to fill the office of President and he feels humiliated by being repeatedly singled out as if he were the only man in the party fit to lead it."

"This man said further, that Mr.

PURITAN THANKSGIVING GREW OUT OF DISGUST FOR CHRISTMAS

Thanksgiving Holidays As Old As History—Mentioned in the Bible—The English Day.

Thanksgiving day, as usually observed in the United States, is regarded as closely resembling that of the Jews. It was in honor of Demeter, the goddess of the cornfields and harvest.

The Romans observed a harvest festival called Cerealia, which was as old as the reign of Romulus.

The old English harvest home was a festival held at time of harvest. Queen Elizabeth issued a proclamation for a day of thanksgiving, saying: "On Thanksgiving day no servile labor may be performed, and thanks should be offered for the increase and abundance of His fruits upon the face of the earth."

There was a national day of thanksgiving in England on the defeat of the Spanish armada, and Oliver Cromwell gave directions for a day of thanks during his reign. On the discovery of the "gunpowder plot" people gave thanks, and the day was observed for more than a century. "Guy Fawkes day" is still remembered in England and the colonies.

Thanksgiving days have been occasionally in Germany, France and other modern nations, but they never became troublesome except in England. There the spirit of giving thanks, or the liking for holidays, became so lively that few work days were left in the year, and the idlers neglected the crops for which they were so anxious to be thankful. And the numerous feast days became days of recreation, drinking and roistering.

Naturally, the English Puritans looked with disapproval on all such "egregious customs. Indeed, this was a large part of their grievance, when those who had not supplied material for the block or Queen Mary's bonfires decided to quit the country.

At this time England was observing more than 100 feast days in the year. Even Christmas was brought into disrepute by the revelry to which the day was given up. At the time of the Reformation the Calvinists rejected the celebration of Christmas absolutely and the clergy of Scotland tried to throw contempt on the day.

So the holy-days appointed by the English church became unsavory to Puritan nostrils and their public celebration was strictly forbidden by the laws of New England. The hatred of "wanton Bacchanalian Christmas," described by Colton as a time of "revelling, dicing, carding, masking and mummery, consumed in comorations, in interludes, in excess of wine, in mirth," was but a reaction against the excesses to which festivals had been carried.

The Pilgrims were so anxious to "beate down every sprout of Epicopaec" that they frowned down any attempt at celebrating a holiday that had been countenanced by the Church of England. So we have the account of that famous first Christmas when they all went ashore from the Mayflower, "some to sow, some to vine, and some to carry, so no man rested all that day."

And out of the disgust with Christmas was born the Pilgrim Thanksgiving. In the first Thanksgiving celebration at Plymouth the domestic hospitality which has since marked the day was displayed by inviting in Chief Massasoit and some 50 of his men, whom the Pilgrims entertained and feasted. The turkey, which has ever since remained as the center of this feast, was then installed in his distinguished place. For the simple reason that, as Morton says: "Turkeys there are which divers times in great flocks have sallied by our doors; and then a gunne salutes them with such a courtesy as makes them take a turne in the cooke-room. They dance by the doore so well!"

"Since the election Murphy has said nothing for publication about the presidential candidates, but he has made it plain that he is opposed to David B. Hill or any man closely identified with Hill in politics. When it became plain that Murphy was to be reckoned with as a State leader as well as a city leader, it was recalled how favorably he had spoken of Mr. Cleveland, and the probability of the former President running a fourth time at the head of the ticket was again discussed. It was reported in print that Murphy had made overtures to Mr. Cleveland, but beyond this there has been no tangible expression on the situation. It is understood that the subject was broached to the former President, with the information that a large number of names of prominent men of both parties were given him as proof of the good faith of the assertion."

In Deuteronomy, the 16th chapter: "Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles, seven days after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and wine." They were further commanded to "rejoice in thy feast, thou and thy son and thy daughter," with the familiar list of man-servant, maid-servant and Levite, stranger and fatherless, widow and orphan.

KUNKLE GOES

WIFE THINKS HE HAS LEFT FOR ILLINOIS.

Mrs. Kunkle Will Remain in Newark and Will Make Her Living by Sewing.

George Kunkle, the glassblower, 449 North Central avenue, has left home and his wife is under the impression that he has gone to his father's residence in Streator, Ill.

The Kunkles have had domestic trouble this week, their affairs having reached the courts. A few days ago the wife commenced an action for divorce, but later Mr. and Mrs. Kunkle concluded to forget the past and start anew. On Wednesday she withdrew the divorce petition.

The adjustment of the affairs, it seems, was but temporary. Mrs. Kunkle said Thursday morning that her husband had left and that he would not return. She told the Advocate that she would assume the payment of certain little debts and would make her living by sewing and doing other work that she is able to do. She said also that she would not begin another action for divorce.

Mrs. Kunkle says that she can do plain sewing and will be glad of the opportunity to get work of this kind. Mrs. Kunkle's address is 449 Central avenue. New telephone 822.

The Police Slate.

The Thanksgiving business at the city prison consisted in the disposal of the cases of three hoboes and two drunks by the mayor.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Darkest Hour," Lincoln J. Carter's great scenic comedy, will be seen here at the Auditorium tonight. Those who saw Charles A. (Karl) Gardner in this place last year, with his laughable humor, keen wit and sweet voice, will remember what an impression he made and with what approval he came to us. People seem never to tire of hearing his melodious voice and his old selections, "Apple Blossoms," "Lilacs," augmented with several new popular German songs. Surrounding him is a cast of exceptional worth and few changes have been made since the play was seen here last season. The scenic effects are still in evidence and seem to have made a hold on the public.

THE RUDE BAND.

There are many imitators of Mr. J. C. Lewis' novel and unique method of heralding the advent of the Si Plunkard company. In each city he appears he presents the only and original Country Band parade, which is well worth going miles to see. This novel street parade will be seen here Saturday, November 28. While we are flattered by imitators, we do not wish to be classed with these imitators of our success. Auditorium, Saturday night.

A LIFE'S MISTAKE.

At the Auditorium next Monday night, November 30, will be "A Life's Mistake," which comes for our consideration next.

This play is from the novel of that name by Charles Garvice—no need to introduce him. It has been transplanted to our own from English soil and given the atmosphere of America, and yet so strong was the story in dramatic material that the dramatic writer was put to his wife's ends to crowd all of the delights of the book into the two and a half hours required for the play, but he has succeeded beyond his expectation and his work will be well displayed, we are promised, by a company of competent players.

A MOUNTAIN PINK.

Mr. Harry Payne, formerly of the Ferris Comedians, has been secured for the leading juvenile character in "A Mountain Pink," a five-act comedy-drama to be given at the Auditorium under the auspices of the Golden Rod lodge drill team on Friday, December 4. The title role of the play, "A Mountain Pink," will be taken by Miss Mayme Dickson, a beautiful young ingenue of marked ability. Taken all in all, the cast is a very competent one.

GRAND UNION STATION DESIGNED FOR CAPITOL.

PLAN OF THE NEW $11,000,000 DEPOT AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 26.—Ancient Rome, profligate Pompeii, beautiful Paris even at the height of her splendor under Napoleon, never dreamed of architectural beauty or lavish expenditure such as characterizes the union station to be erected here after years of planning.

The new depot will in reality be the vestibule of the capital. It will cost, completed, $11,000,000. The government contributes $3,000,000 towards abolishing grade crossings and shares with the District of Columbia the cost of establishing the new plaza and streets for which the estimate is $7,000,000.

A JAILER AND TEACHER BELOVED BY RED MEN.

LOWER GROUP SHOWS YOUNG INDIANS ON ARRIVAL AT CARLISLE SCHOOL. THE UPPER PICTURE IS A GROUP OF GRADUATES.

Fort Sill, O. T., Nov. 25.—After years of watching, waiting and teaching, Colonel R. H. Pratt, commandant of the Indian industrial school at Carlisle, Pa., has received his reward, richer than the emoluments an ungrateful government grudgingly bestows, in the simple words of an old chief, who said to him:

"Some children go to school because they have no home and no one wants them; but I send my child to you because I love her."

Could a higher compliment be paid? The recent reunion of Colonel Pratt and a large number of those who in the past have been his prisoners or pupils was as sincere a compliment to the old soldier as man may receive.

Nothing goes further to show the reverence in which he is held by the children of the plains than the welcome accorded him on the banks of the Washitaw by men of all the tribes.

In 1875 when, after two years spent on the trail, the regulars succeeded in rounding up and arresting several hundred of the more blood-thirsty leaders of the bands which had been terrorizing the southwest border, then being settled, Cheyennes, Kiowas, Arapahoes and Comanches were made prisoners in old Fort Sill and the raids checked.

From the prisoners 100 of the most bloodthirsty were sentenced to imprisonment in the old Spanish fort at St. Augustine, Fla., and the then Captain Pratt assigned to the command.

For days before the departure for the south, the squaws made the night hideous with their wailing. They would creep to the stockade, to be near the braves, and their lamentations were weird and pitiful.

Inside, the warriors sat, sullen and quiet, watching for a chance to hurt themselves on the guards. In despair at leaving their families they had to be watched to prevent suicide, and one man did evade the vigilance and committed suicide with a small knife which his squaw had smuggled to him.

Another, while on the train, jumped from the window, and shackled as he was, allowed himself to be captured only after a long, hard struggle.

The trip to St. Augustine was made with the Indians shackled hand and foot. They were placed in the old fort, and there the experience of Colonel Pratt, gained during years on the plains, was valuable. To that appointment as commander is the Carlisle school directly responsible.

His humane treatment won the hearts of the men he had been at war with for years. He gave them faith and they returned it royally. He took off their shackles and transformed slaves into men.

The old fort was in need of repair and Captain Pratt employed masons to teach the words of the nation, so that they became interested and took pride in doing well the simple tasks set

Mrs. Pratt and other women in the garrison taught the younger men to read and write, and it was a proud day when they could sign their names.

At the end of the imprisonment the old men rejoined their tribes, but some of the younger ones begged to remain East "to learn the white man's ways." They were sent to Hampton institute, Virginia, and Captain Pratt was placed in command.

He soon concluded that the Indians and colored youth did not get on as they should, and the government in 1878, at his request, set aside the barracks at Carlisle, Pa., for the purpose of educating the young men. From that time it has grown to its present strength, 1,100 students, who look upon Colonel Pratt as their guardian angel.

A short time since Colonel Pratt was in Oklahoma Territory on government business, and while driving across the

All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing.
Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the

THANKSGIVING
"THANKSGIVING is coming round again," said Robert Kempton to his wife. "Please don't make any difference this year, Mabel. We have nothing to be thankful for. Bob and Ella have spoiled our lives."

"We should be thankful that it is no worse," replied the wife, with a patience that never deserted her.

But this is not the beginning of the story.

Years before Mabel Lathrop, much to her father's and mother's chagrin, married Robert Kempton, a wild, reckless fellow, and he would have been a never-do-well had not Mabel saved him.
Robert knew and admitted that she had turned him from a worthless life.

"Mabel," he said to her, "I owe all I am to you. God forbid that I should ever treat you with the slightest harshness. On the contrary, I pray that he may send me some unusual opportunity to serve you, to suffer for you, perhaps to die for you."

"You are doing all that is needed in making me happy," said the wife.

Then came Bobbie Kempton, a bright eyed, sunny disposed little chap who was his mother's darling and his father's pride. Mabel fed him, bathed him, clothed him, gave him his airing during the day, and before he went to sleep in the evening his father romped with him.

When Bob came to be about fifteen he began to show signs of the proclivities his father had shown in his youth and thus brought sorrow to his parents. Mabel was patient with him, and so was his father for a time, but Bob grew more unruly, more reckless.

son, though he feared that he had continued in a downward course and the sight of him would kill his mother.

This was the condition of Robert and Mabel Kempton just before Thanksgiving. There was no need for Robert to request his wife not to make the usual preparations, for she was unable to do so. She had been losing strength rapidly and finally took to her bed. However, the day before the anniversary she got up and gave some directions to the servants in order that it should not be entirely lost sight of.

The next morning she lay on a lounge in the living room before a cheerful fire. Her husband sat down beside her, smoothed her hair and took her shrunken hand in his.

"Wife," he said, "you remember that when we were married I asked for some opportunity to serve you. I believe it has come. I am going to try to find Bob."

"The opportunity has passed," Robert," replied
the wife. "It came to you the day Bob went away. I saw contrition in his face. If you had called him back he would have begun anew."

The husband and father bowed his head.

"Never mind.
Robert. The past
can't be undone.
Let us be thankful that we are surrounded with every comfort.
And some day
Bobbie may come back to us."

While they were talking two persons had stolen into the back yard and under cover of the outhouses entered the house. Suddenly the sitting room door opened, and a young man and a girl entered the room.

"Father!"
"Mother!"
"Bob!"
"Ella!"

In an instant the old people were in the arms of the recreant son and adopted daughter.

Then came explanations. Ella, knowing of the secret that was eating at Mrs. Kempton's heart and breaking down her health, resolved that she would repay the kindness she had received by going in search of Bob Kempton. After considering the best course for her to adopt on leaving she concluded not to make known her quest to Mrs. Kempton, fearing that the suspense would be detrimental. It would be better, she thought, to say nothing, but bring the son home if possible. If she failed there would be no disappointment. She traced him to a distant city and found him absorbed in business. He had long intended to communicate with his parents, but a reminiscence of his father's last look and words had always caused him to defer action. He had made money easily, but had not kept it, his naturally reckless disposition interfering with economy.

"Ella," said the father, after all had been explained, "you have done for mother that signal service which I always wished to do for her myself.
When the opportunity occurred I did not recognize it. When it came to you, you recognized it at once. Do now for Bob what mother has done for me—save him from his reckless disposition and make a progressive man of him.

Marry him."

Ella blushed, and young Robert said:
"She can't do that, father, for she did it early this morning."

An hour later, as the reunited group sat at table, the father gave this toast:
"Blessed be those who recognize their opportunities."

H. E. REALE.

The First Thanksgiving Day.
The first national Thanksgiving day was proclaimed by President Washington on the 21 day of October, 1789, setting Thursday, the 26th day of November, as the date, in honor of the adoption of the constitution of the United States. The second national Thanksgiving day was also proclaimed by Washington, but was in February of 1790. Subsequent presidents called upon the people of the country to observe such a day of thanksgiving, but it was not until the presidency of Abraham Lincoln that the observance became a fixed event and the last Thursday of November was recognized as an annual public holiday.

Doesn't Respect Old Age. It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Fever, Constipation all yield to this perfect Pill. 25c. at Frank D. Hall's drug store.

DIRECTORY

OF INDEPENDENT TELEPHONE COMPANYShows Unprecedented Growth—The Subscribers Are Asked to Call by Number

Manager Charles E. Hollander, of the Newark Independent Telephone company, is now distributing to subscribers copies of the new telephone directory, which has just been printed.

This new directory of 56 pages is nearly twice as large as any previous number, thus speaking well for the growth of this home institution. A year ago the company had about half the number of subscribers it has today and the list is constantly growing.

Besides giving connection with nearly 1,200 subscribers in Newark, the company has direct connection with hundreds of Licking county people in towns near Newark and along the country roads leading into those towns. The list just out contains the names of subscribers at Granville, Johnstown, Croton, Utica, Homer, Pataskala, Hebron, Jersey, Thornville and the "Farmers' Lines," besides a list of the 32 Licking county toll stations.

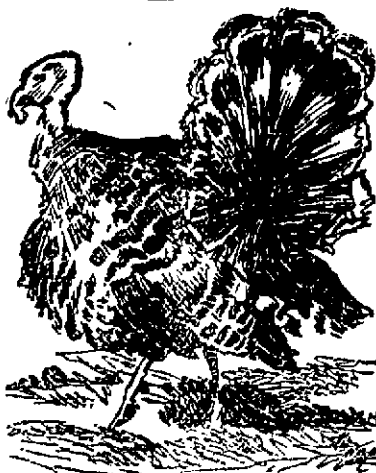

The company gives a 10-cent rate (for one minute) to Columbus and has connection over Ohio and in parts of adjoining states. The independent long distance company, with which the local company is connected, is constantly extending its lines.

The Newark Telephone company, which is made up of about thirty-five Newark men and women, began business in 1894, and at that time built the first independent telephone exchange in the state. The company started with about 200 subscribers and a capital stock of $20,000. The growth was gradual till a year ago, when the old battery system was discarded and a complete new plant installed on the "Central Energy" plan. Everything new was installed, so that the plant today is brand new throughout. The wisdom of the improvement is apparent. The company's list of subscribers has almost doubled in less than a year and it is constantly growing larger.

At the present time the company is adding another section to its switchboard in the exchange over the Weiant bakery, so as to accommodate 1,500 subscribers. Additional cables have been strung in various parts of the city to prepare for the increase in the volume of business.

The company has thirty regular employees, twenty of whom are engaged in the operation of the switchboard. From 6:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. nine girls are at the switchboard and toll lines, and from 9 p. m. to 6:30 a. m. two operators take care of the calls. As the subscribers' list has grown so large it cannot be expected that any operator can instantly connect subscribers unless numbers are given. To facilitate the service, call by number always. Never call by name.

TEACHERS

CONSIDER FEDERATION PLANS, BUT DO NOT ACT.

About Forty Expressed a Desire to Join Federation—County President Prof. Austin Absent.

The meeting of the Newark public school teachers, held at the Newark High school building Wednesday afternoon, to consider the advisability of joining the Ohio Federation of Teachers, was well attended, but no definite action was taken.

Professor Childs acted as chairman, Professor R. G. Austin, president of the Licking county branch, being in Morrice, Mich., at the bedside of his father, who was seriously injured in an accident. About 40 teachers expressed themselves as being favorable to joining the federation. Another meeting will be held shortly after Professor Austin returns.

NOW IN JAIL

J. R. CHANNEL WAS ARRESTED IN COLUMBUS

And Brought to Newark at Midnight—One of Hardest Fought Cases in This County.

In the case of J. R. Channel, who was convicted of stealing a sow and nine pigs from Beeson Brothers, of Asa Postoffice, in this county, and sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and to serve 100 days in the county jail, and whose motion to file a petition in error to the circuit court was overruled by the supreme court, is now in jail. He was arrested at his home in Columbus Wednesday night by a Columbus officer on a telegram sent by Sheriff Anderson. The sheriff and Deputy Linke went over to Columbus and returned on the midnight train with their prisoner. This has been one of the hardest fought cases ever tried in the Licking courts.

While sitting alone in a Boston office Wednesday, Miss Lillian Goff, 23, a stenographer, was brutally assaulted by a man who struck her with an iron drill. About $400 was stolen from the safe. Miss Goff has described the man to the police.

Woman's Health

Depends largely on the condition of the stomach. If this important organ is allowed to become weak, Constipation develops. Then follow Nausea, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Insomnia and General Weakness. To preserve health there is nothing so good as Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. It will aid digestion, promote regularity and cure Dyspepsia and Constipation. A trial will convince you of its value. For Sale by Druggists.
